RUDOLPH MAN KILLED IN PIT ACCIDENT

SPRING ELECTION EXPECTED TO BE A QUIET AFFAIR

ODD YEAR IN CITY ELECTIONS CAUSES LITTLE OPPOSITION; MANY ALDERMEN TO SEEK RE-ELECTION

Unlike Chicago, quiet reigns supreme along the Wisconsin Rapids political battle front as there is little possibility of hot battles of any great magnitude owing to the fact that this is the odd year in Wisconsin Rapids elections. The election this spring, which falls on the first Tuesday in April, will be centered around the contests for alderman in the various wards and the election of a justice of the peace to succeed W. H. Getts.

With Wisconsin Rapids political excitement being confined to the year in which the offices of mayor, city treasurer, city clerk, and city attorney have to be filled, there is a feeling that the election this spring will be extremely quiet with very few hard fought contests.

Elect Nine Aldermen

The electors this spring will have to choose aldermen to succeed the following: John Ernser, first ward; Ferd Link, second ward; John Roberts, third ward; H. C. Demitz, third ward, (Demitz was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Lacy Horton and the election this year will be for a short term); W. W. Rickman, fourth ward; August Henke, fifth ward; M. C. Whitrock, sixth ward; William Appel, seventh ward; and Ben Hansen, eighth ward.

In the first ward John Ernser, who has served this ward for a number of years, has definitely decided not to be a candidate for re-election. Alderman Ferd Link has announced his candidacy for re-election in the second.

Two in Third Ward

The third ward voters will have to elect two alderman, one for a short term and one for a two year term. H. C. Demitz, who was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Lacy Horton, will be a candidate for alderman for the short term while John Roberts will seek re-election for the long term. In making statements to the Tribune both candidates claimed that they had not given the matter a great deal of thought, but as sentiment seemed to favor their candidacy they had decided to again seek the office.

W. W. Rickman, present alderman from the fourth ward, will again seek the office and has definitely announced that he will be a candidate for re-election. August Henke, appointed to succeed P. Tomsyck, could not be reached today, but close friends state that he has decided to make the run for alderman in the fifth ward.

Whitrock Drops Out

M. C. Whitrock, one of the veteran aldermen and a member of the present board of public works, has announced that he will not be a candidate for re-election for the sixth ward office. Mr. Whitrock would give no reason for his decision.

Wm. Appel, present representative from the seventh ward has announced his intention of again seeking the office. In the eighth ward Ben Hansen is undecided whether he will make the run or not as he has not made up his mind one way or the other.

Justice of the Peace W. H. Getts will again be a candidate for the office. It is not known whether there will be any others seeking this office or not.

More May Run

William Cummings has announced his intentions of being a candidate for alderman from the first ward to succeed John Ernser. As Mr. Ernser has decided that he will not seek re-election, this leaves the field open to Mr. Cummings unless some other candidate announces his intentions of seeking the office.

Up to this time, there has not been any sign of a contest in any of the elections as all candidates who have signified their intentions of running are unopposed. It is possible, however, that others will announce their candidacy within a short time.

Senate Standing Ready To Stem Tide Of Radicalism Now Sweeping Assembly

(By Associated Press)

Madison, Wis., Mar. 2—Senators in the Wisconsin legislature are coming to take their positions more seriously and to show evidence of an increasing cautiousness as the assembly goes on its way demonstrating a general willingness to attack anything or any policy that has caused dissatisfaction.

In the lower house, overwhelming majorities are voting to override committee reports, to abolish departments of state government with little discussion and to vote favorably on all sorts of proposals suggested by members regardless of their object. At least senators say that they view the situation in the lower house in that light. They are wondering how far to go on some of the matters that will come over for action by them.

Tax Battle Looms

The tax problem finds many members in both houses who think alike. There is no doubt now but that the Dahl general income tax bill, termed a model proposal by the tax commission, will be finally passed by the assembly and sent to the senate. Here it is to have serious difficulty navigating because of the opposition of some administration senators to certain provisions. The large assembly vote yesterday sending the bill to engrossment 80 to 17 may influence some votes in the upper house, but first the senators say they must be shown on the abolition of the personal property tax offset where relief will be afforded.

DR. HURT WILL SPEAK AT BANQUET

NOTED AUTHORITY ON SCOUTING ENGAGED TO TALK AT FATHER AND SON BANQUET TO BE HELD APRIL 11.

At a meeting Thursday night of the scout commissioner, deputy scout commisisoners, scout executive, scout masters and assistant scout masters it was decided to obtain the services of Dr. H. W. Hurt, former scout executive of Chicago and a noted authority on scouting, to speak at the fathers and sons banquet which will be given April 11. At this time the program for the spring was fully developed and plans were outlined to have one of the most successful years in the history of local scouting.

A Forceful Speaker

Dr. Hurt, who has already signified his intentions of giving one of his nationally known talks on scouting and the American youth, is one of the foremost orators in the United States. Wherever he has appeared the press has been unanimous in stating that he is a very eloquent talker and especially so in regard to getting a message of force and punch across to the American boy of today.

One of the biggest rallys in the local scout history is planned for either April 20 or 21st, when the scouts will hold a real, old time jamboree. This will be held either in some suitable building or outdoors if weather conditions are favorable. At this time contests will be held, games will be played, and scouting demonstrations will be given by local scouts who will perform the tasks and tricks that have been taught them during their period of scouthood.

Patrol Leaders' Course

It was also decided to have the scout leaders form into troops and meet as the boys do with the exception that this body will meet once a month. A patrol leaders course for patrol leaders will also be started about the third week in March by Scout Executive Wilcox.

A plan was discussed whereby the scouts of the city could enter into a clean up week campaign with the rest of the city. It was decided to go ahead with these plans so that the scouts could co-operate with the city fathers in making Wisconsin Rapids a better place to live. An Arbor day observance is also planned when it is expected that the scouts will enter upon some plan to improve the looks of the city.

Leading statisticians of Eigland assert that more persons annually choke to death while eating in England than are killed on the English railways.

Blaine and Ekern Pledge Support to Port Meeting

(By Associated Press)

Madison, Wis., Mar. 2—Governor J. J. Blaine and Attorney General Herman L. Ekern, both sent messages to the conference of port cities on the great lakes, meeting at Manitowoc, calling for the officials of Wisconsin to do "everything possible to protect the rights of Wisconsin ports in the most effective manner."

Investigate Action

The governor announced that Attorney General Ekern was investigating the action commenced by Wisconsin against the state of Illinois to restrain further diversion of lake waters to the Chicago drainage canal.

These telegrams, sent by the governor and attorney general were in reply to a request from the conference for expression on the illegal diversion of lake water into the Chicago drainage canal and the suit of Wisconsin before the United States supreme court.

Say Effect Negligible

Chicago, Ill., Mar. 2—The amount that the Chicago drainage canal is lowering the level of Lake Michigan is negligible, engineers of the sanitary commisison said today, in reply to the statement by Mayor D. W. Hoan of Milwaukee that the canal by taking water from the lake was lowering the water level and endangering future shipping.

Changes in the water level, caused by the canal are but a small portion of the level change in the seasons of the year, engineers declared and shipping has not been endangered in any way.

They admit that the limit of 4,167 cubic feet per second, stipulated by the war department as a maximum to be taken from the lake, had been exceeded, but point to the Illinois water way which required 10,000 feet per second for sewage purposes for 3,000,000 people. While the canal maximum water capacity has been reached, it is not 10,000 cubic feet.

French Attach Another Fine On German City

(By Associated Press)

Essen, Germony, Mar. 2.—The town of Bochum has been fined 35,000,000 marks because two news dealers were beaten by Germans for selling French newspapers.

The town of Kettwig near Essen where military teltphone wires were cut, has been fined 1,000,000 marks.

The fines were in accordance with an order by General DeGoutte, French commander, that the cities and towns troughout the Ruhr Valley shall be held responsible for sabotage or other acts of disorder designed to hinder the French and Belgian armies of occupation. German officials of such towns will be liable to arrest and trial by court marshall in serious cases.

The Bochum fine was collected quickly. The French troops swooped down on Rathau took the amount and left.

French and Belgian forces of occupation are adding to their rolling stock for operation of the German railroads. Yesterday at Muihlhein, French troops seized 115 locomotives sixty carloads of coke and thirty carloads of coal, and took over the round house and repair shop.

OPEN ROADS FOR AUTOMOBILE SHOW COUNTY PROMISES

COUNTY HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER AND COUNTY ROAD COMMITTEE HEAR REQUEST OF LOCAL ORGANIZATIONS; TO OPEN ROADS

County Highway Commissioner Ed. Morris, W. H. Reeves and Geo. Browne members of the county state road and bridge committee assured a committee of local Chamber of Commerce members, Automobile association members and city officials that the roads in roads in Wood county, at least the main travelled roads would be opened up for traffic by the end of this week, which would be in sufficient time for the opening of the automobile show. The roads to be opened include Wisconsin Rapids-Marshfield via Vesper, Wisconsin Rapids-Rudolph, and Route 66 to county line.

Rural People Appreciate It

It was learned that the rural districts also appreciate the plans to open the roads and it is certain that the small amount of work necessary to break through the drifted portions will be highly appreciated by the farmers as well as the city people. The snow drifted portions have kept many farmers from the cities and unless broken up during this present warm spell might not be as easily opened again for some weeks. Unless the roads are opened a large number of rural people might be prohibited from attending the big automotive show. Manager Ragan had received word from several farmersstating that they intended to come in for the show if the roads permitted.

Thank Officials

Members of the Automobile Ass'n and C. of C. committees, met after a conference with the county highway officials and unanimously passed a resolution thanking County Highway Commissioner Edw. Morris and the members of the County State Road and Bridge Committee and Mrs. Hougen, deputy commissioner for their action and decision.

State Senate Votes To Bar Unfriendly Texts

Madison, Wis. Mar. 2.—The Wisconsin senate last night voted that school texts published to defame the national founders or patriots and events concerning the Revolution or the war of 1812, should be barred from the schools of the state.

This action followed denunciation of many present day history books by Senator J. L. Cashman author of the measure. He pointed out that the stories favorable to the English had crept into the books used by school children today while heroes of past American histories were defamed or their mention omitted.

According to the announcement the station at Waupaca will broadcast the events occurring here to all of the stations in the United States at the time when they send out their daily market reports. This information will be given to the broadcasting station by the two locals concerns.

As an added attraction a special program has been arranged for Saturday afternoon, March 10th, at three o'clock, when the station at Waupaca will give a one hour program. At this time the usual preliminary talk will be given on radio, events of the show will be published and a special musical program will be broadcasted as if it was occurring in this city.

In order to facilitate matters and make the show a success the Central Wisconsin Electric Company will install their receiving set at the amusement hall where the concert will be received.

Given Wide Publicity

Carl Van Hecke, representative of the Jensen & Anderson Co. and Franklyn Miller, of the Central Wisconsin Electric, have opened negotiations with several other broadcasting stations to broadcast the events of the show. It is expected that stations from Minneapolis and Kansas City will enter in upon this plan. It is assured however that programs will be received during all sessions of the exhibit and messages will be received from far distant parts stating that the events of the show in this city are being received.

Pola's And Charlie's Love Dream Suffers Brief Break

(By Associated Press)

Los Angeles, Cal. Mar.2.—Pola Negri and Charles Chaplin, motion picture stars, were engaged again today after having endured six hours of anguish last night when Miss Negri broke their engagement to marry because she had read in a newspaper a statement credited to her fiance that he was "too poor to marry her just now."

Pola Negri

Rumors that they were engaged interested motion picture fans when they were first published. November 25 last and the interest was maintained when the press officially confirmed the rumors at Pebble Beach, near Delmonte, Cal., January 25.

Pola Also "Too Poor"

Twelve hours after Chaplin's "too poor" statement, Miss Negri issued a statement reading:

"I consider I am too poor to marry Charles Chaplin. He needs a wealthy woman and should have no difficulty in finding one in the United States. Therefore, I give Mr. Chaplin his freedom and release him from this engagement."

Pressed for details, Miss Negri tearfully declared: "there are a thousand things a woman must learn by experience. I will live only after I experience the rest."

Charlie Taciturn

Chaplin said: "Oh! Is that so?" when newspaper men informed him of what Miss Negri had said. He refused to talk and could not be reached by telephone. He barred his friends from his home while he thought.

Just what happened then probably will never be given to the world, but after midnight Chaplain went home with a smile on his face and Miss Negri again wore the platinum engagement ring, and she was "too happy to sleep" she said.

Take Injunction Powers From Court Commissioners

(By Associated Press)

Madison, Wis. Mar.2.—The state federation of labor bill taking away authority to issue injunction from the court commissioners in Wisconsin was unanimously passed by the state senate last night. The measure now goes to the assembly where its passage is looked for without real opposition.

Only the circuit court and courts of concurrent jurisdiction will hereafter be permitted to grant injunctionary orders if the bill is enacted.

Funeral Of Rudolph Muehlstein Held Today

Civil Service And Farm Institutes Are Threatened

Madison, Wis. March 2.—Two time honored institutions in Wisconsin may be swept into the discard. The assembly by large votes has advanced the Oliver bill to repeal the state civil service system and the Miller bill to wipe out the system of farmers' institutes in the state.

Effects 3,000 Employes

The state civil service commission was created during the close of the La Follette administration under a bill offered by Assemblyman Ernest N. Warner, Dane county. A recent report indicates there are approximately 3,000 employes under civil service performing 225 different types of work.

To fill the positions under civil service the commission holds about eighty-five competitive examinations a year. Those qualified are certified to the appointing officers for position in order of their rank.

Two main speeches against the present civil service commission were made by Assemblyman Frank Weber Milwaukee and James Oliver, Green Bay. Weber claimed that the civil service plan had caused the downfall of all republics.

Institutes Not Needed

Farmers institutes have been held in the state for the past twenty-five years. The main argument made in favor of abolishing the system was advanced by Assemblyman G. W. Schmidt of Clark county. He said that the county agent plan and the farmers institute systems duplicated each other: that formerly it was well to teach the farmer now to make three blades of grass grow where one grew before. Now it was different. He pointed out that too much was grown and that the farmer now needed instruction in co-operation and marketing his crops.

Local Needlework Guild Receives National Honor

The efforts of the Wisconsin Rapids Branch, Needlework Guild of America in organizing new branches of the guild in Nekoosa and Port Edwards during the year 1922, are to be rewarded by the national organization with an Extension Honor Banner with an extra star, according to word received from Rosamond K. Bender, executive secretary, by Mrs. R. M. Gilson. The Wisconsin Rapids branch was the only one in the United States to be instrumental in organizing two new branches, and the honor received is therefore a signal one.

During the year the local branch of the guild distributed 512 garments among needy families in the community and turned in $9.30 toward the support of the national organization. The Nekoosa branch distributed 177 garments and turned in $1.00 and the Port Edwards branch reported 308 garments and $1.54.

The roads to be opened include Wisconsin Rapids-Marshfield via Vesper, Wisconsin Rapids-Rudolph, and Route 66 to county line.

Rural People Appreciate It

It was learned that the rural districts also appreciate the plans to open the roads and it is certain that the small amount of work necessary to break through the drifted portions will be highly appreciated by the farmers as well as the city people. The snow drifted portions have kept many farmers from the cities and unless broken up during this present warm spell might not be as easily opened again for some weeks. Unless the roads are opened a large number of rural people might be prohibited from attending the big automotive show. Manager Ragan had received word from several farmersstating that they intended to come in for the show if the roads permitted.

State Senate Votes To Bar Unfriendly Texts

Madison, Wis. Mar. 2.—The Wisconsin senate last night voted that school texts published to defame the national founders or patriots and events concerning the Revolution or the War of 1812, should be barred from the schools of the state.

This action followed denunciation of many present day history books by Senator J. L. Cashman author of the measure. He pointed out that the stories favorable to the English had crept into the books used by school children today while heroes of past American histories were defamed or their mention omitted.

Senate To Investigate Recent Raise In Sugar

Events Of Auto Show To Be Broadcasted By Radio

Wisconsin Rapids will be pushed forward in the automobile and radio world during the automotive show which is to be held in this city March 8, 9, 10, and 11 according to an announcement received today by the Central Wisconsin Electric Company and the Jensen & Anderson Garage who state that arrangements have been completed with the broadcasting station at Waupaca to broadcast the events of the show.

According to the announcement the station at Waupaca will broadcast the events occurring here to all of the stations in the United States at the time when they send out their daily market reports. This information will be given to the broadcasting station by the two locals concerns.

As an added attraction a special program has been arranged for Saturday afternoon, March 10th, at three o'clock, when the station at Waupaca will give a one hour program. At this time the usual preliminary talk will be given on radio, events of the show will be published and a special musical program will be broadcasted as if it was occurring in this city.

In order to facilitate matters and make the show a success the Central Wisconsin Electric Company will install their receiving set at the amusement hall where the concert will be received.

Given Wide Publicity

Carl Van Hecke, representative of the Jensen & Anderson Co. and Franklyn Miller, of the Central Wisconsin Electric, have opened negotiations with several other broadcasting stations to broadcast the events of the show. It is expected that stations from Minneapolis and Kansas City will enter in upon this plan. It is assured however that programs will be received during all sessions of the exhibit and messages will be received from far distant parts stating that the events of the show in this city are being received.

Pola's And Charlie's Love Dream Suffers Brief Break

(By Associated Press)

Los Angeles, Cal. Mar.2.—Pola Negri and Charles Chaplin, motion picture stars, were engaged again today after having endured six hours of anguish last night when Miss Negri broke their engagement to marry because she had read in a newspaper a statement credited to her fiance that he was "too poor to marry her just now."

Pola Negri

Rumors that they were engaged interested motion picture fans when they were first published, November 25 last and the interest was maintained when the press officially confirmed the rumors at Pebble Beach, near Delmonte, Cal., January 25.

Pola Also "Too Poor"

Twelve hours after Chaplin's "too poor" statement, Miss Negri issued a statement reading:

"I consider I am too poor to marry Charles Chaplin. He needs a wealthy woman and should have no difficulty in finding one in the United States. Therefore, I give Mr. Chaplin his freedom and release him from this engagement."

Pressed for details, Miss Negri tearfully declared: "there are a thousand things a woman must learn by experience. I will live only after I experience the rest."

Charlie Taciturn

Chaplin said: "Oh! Is that so?" when newspaper men informed him of what Miss Negri had said. He refused to talk and could not be reached by telephone. He barred his friends from his home while he thought.

Just what happened then probably will never be given to the world, but after midnight Chaplain went home with a smile on his face and Miss Negri again wore the platinum engagement ring, and she was "too happy to sleep" she said.

Take Injunction Powers From Court Commissioners

(By Associated Press)

Madison, Wis. Mar.2.—The state federation of labor bill taking away authority to issue injunction from the court commissioners in Wisconsin was unanimously passed by the state senate last night. The measure now goes to the assembly where its passage is looked for without real opposition.

Only the circuit court and courts of concurrent jurisdiction will hereafter be permitted to grant injunctionary orders if the bill is enacted.

Civil Service And Farm Institutes Are Threatened

Madison, Wis. March 2.—Two time honored institutions in Wisconsin may be swept into the discard. The assembly by large votes has advanced the Oliver bill to repeal the state civil service system and the Miller bill to wipe out the system of farmers' institutes in the state.

Effects 3,000 Employes

The state civil service commission was created during the close of the La Follette administration under a bill offered by Assemblyman Ernest N. Warner, Dane county. A recent report indicates there are approximately 3,000 employes under civil service performing 225 different types of work.

To fill the positions under civil service the commission holds about eighty-five competitive examinations a year. Those qualified are certified to the appointing officers for position in order of their rank.

Two main speeches against the present civil service commission were made by Assemblyman Frank Weber, Milwaukee and James Oliver, Green Bay. Weber claimed that the civil service plan had caused the downfall of all republics.

Institutes Not Needed

Farmers' institutes have been held in the state for the past twenty-five years. The main argument made in favor of abolishing the system was advanced by Assemblyman G. W. Schmidt of Clark county. He said that the county agent plan and the farmers institute systems duplicated each other; that formerly it was well to teach the farmer now to make three blades of grass grow where one grew before. Now it was different. He pointed out that too much was grown and that the farmer now needed instruction in co-operation and marketing his crops.

Local Needlework Guild Receives National Honor

The efforts of the Wisconsin Rapids Branch, Needlework Guild of America in organizing new branches of the guild in Nekoosa and Port Edwards during the year 1922, are to be rewarded by the national organization with an Extension Honor Banner with an extra star, according to word received from Rosamond K. Bender, executive secretary, by Mrs. R. M. Gilson. The Wisconsin Rapids branch was the only one in the United States to be instrumental in organizing two new branches, and the honor received is therefore a signal one.

During the year the local branch of the guild distributed 512 garments among needy families in the community and turned in $9.30 toward the support of the national organization. The Nekoosa branch distributed 177 garments and turned in $1.00 and the Port Edwards branch reported 308 garments and $1.54.

HENRY PAGELS STRUCK ON HEAD BY FALLING EARTH

200 POUND CHUNK OF FROZEN EARTH FALLS EIGHT FEET AND BREAKS MAN'S NECK; DEATH INSTANTANEOUS.

Henry Pagel Town of Rudolph was instantly killed this morning at eight o'clock in his sand pit located two miles northeast of Biron, when a large 200 pound piece of frozen earth fell from the edge of the sand pit in which he was working and struck him on the back of his head, breaking his neck. Death was instantaneous.

According to the information given out by August Karth, Rudolph, who was working with Mr. Pagel in his sand pit, the two men were digging into the edge of the pit and were undermining the edge when the unfortunate accident occurred. The men were busily engaged in excavating the gravel when, without warning, the large chunk of earth fell from the upper edge, snuffing out the life of Mr. Pagel.

Entirely Unexpected

Aid was summoned from nearby farms and Dr. Waters was summoned from this city. All possible aid was rendered the unfortunate man, but upon the arrival of Dr. Waters it was found that life was already extinct and that death was instantaneous.

According to Mr. Karth the piece of earth fell a distance of eight feet, but with such force that it could be heard for blocks. He further stated that the accident was entirely unexpected as the two men had inspected the portion of the pit in which they were working just before they had started work this morning.

SPRING HOUSE CLEANING

Chicago went on record at the polls three days ago in a very decisive manner and endorsed two good citizens as candidates for Mayor in the two major parties. Lender, present postmaster and Dever, present judge, both men of clean reputations, neither one a politician in the ordinary cheap sense of the word and both worthy of the high office. It was certainly a nice piece of housecleaning on the part of the Chicago voters and one which will have lasting results as far as the city is concerned. Living eight years under the questionable dealings of the Thompson political ring, Chicago suffered considerably. The outlook is bright for the future of the Windy City.

THE DAHL TAX BILL

Is Wisconsin an agricultural or an industrial state? Everyone knows the answer. It's not one or the other but both. There is no one source of the state's prosperity. If Wisconsin stands first in dairying and high in the production of hay and potatoes, it is also one of the leading states of the union in the production of leather, paper, machinery, dairy and many other manufactured articles.

It is therefore a matter of genuine concern to all interested in the state's welfare that the Dahl income tax measure, sent to engrossment by the assembly yesterday by an overwhelming vote, bids fair to be fought out on a basis of agriculture versus industry, or, more generally, of the city dweller versus the country dweller. Industry cries out that it will be permanently crippled by the passage of the bill, while its supporters on the other hand maintain that its passage is necessary to lift from the farmer the burden of taxation under which he has been staggering.

Here in Wisconsin Rapids it is easy to see the futility of such a contest. The city sells to the farmer and the farmer sells to the city. One cannot prosper without the other. A fair adjustment of the tax burdens upon both industry and agriculture is the only practical solution. That, of course, is easy to say and hard to do. Nobody pretends that our present tax system is altogether equitable, in fact it apparently pleases no one, but one thing is certain and that is that any attempt to make one class or group bear a disproportionate share of the burden will only make the situation worse.

It is an interesting sidelight upon the situation that it is Milwaukee's Socialist mayor, Daniel W. Hoan, who is taking the leadership in the fight against the Dahl bill. As a Socialist, Hoan is not likely to be accused of undue sympathy with the business interests whose part he is taking. He sees in the measure, however, not only an attempt to make the other pay more than their just share of taxes, but also danger of the great industries of Milwaukee and other cities being seriously crippled with loss not only to them but to their thousands of employes. Governor Blaine and Senator La Follette, who a few short months ago were the leaders of the socialistic radical movement in the state, have been made to appear conservatives by the wave of irresponsibility that is sweeping through the state assembly. Now Milwaukee's Socialist mayor takes his place in opposition to a vital part of the "radical" program. Have Governor Blaine, Senator LaFollette and Mayor Hoan turned reactionary overnight or are they merely demonstrating a degree of sound sense not exhibited by many of their followers.

Woodstone is the name of a material made of sawdust mixed with magnesia cement and compressed under enormous pressure. This woodstone is very like ordinary wood, save that it has no grain. It is made in planks which can be cut with a saw and planed, and has the advantage of not being inflamable.

FORTUNE WINNERS REMEMBER GIRL

JUNCTION CITY WINNERS OF THE HOTEL NORTHERN BUY WATCH AND RING FOR GIRL WHO DREW NUMBER

Little Miss Elizabeth Haag of Eau Claire, aged 14 years, who drew the lucky number from a churn on the night of July 4, 1921, which awarded Hotel Northern of Chippewa Falls to Peter Layman of Junction City and a group of his friends, was remembered by the winners this week.

She was rewarded when A. L. Voyer of Junction City, another of the winners, made a special trip to Chippewa to give her a white gold artist watch valued at $45, and a diamond ring in white gold with platinum top, valued at $55. The back of the watch contains the engraving: "From Peter Layman and winners of Hotel Northern."

Received $65,000

While the winners never received the hotel, they accepted a fortune in cash and securities in lieu of the building, the amount agreed upon being $65,000. The final settlement was made a few weeks ago with the Chippewa lodge of Elks.

Little Miss Haag drew No. E-67 and this number was held by Layman in pool No. 2528, the other pool holders being Voyer and his wife and two children and George Teacher, all of Junction City, M. J. Wolcott of Dickinson, Wis., and Otto Schaller of Chippewa. All in the group decided to secure the gifts for the girl for the good luck which she brought to them. The pool winners plan to have a meeting at Chippewa each year to celebrate their good fortune in the drawing. Mr. Voyer declared that all are entirely satisfied with the settlement.

Mr. Voyer left Chippewa for Minneapolis to visit his brother, Dr. E. O. Voyer, who is a surgeon in St. Mary's hospital in that city. The Junction City man is suffering from a goitre and will have an examination made with a view to an operation in the near future.

WATER DIVERSION BIG STEAL HOAN TELLS PORT MEN

MILWAUKEE MAYOR SAYS CHICAGO PROJECT IS COSTING LAKE CITIES MILLIONS IN DREDGING EXPENSES

(By Associated Press)

Manitowoc, Wis., March 2—The Chicago drainage canal, which is diverting a tremendous volume of water out of the Great Lakes, has not only caused tax payers of other lake cities to spend millions of dollars in dredging their harbors to keep pace with the gradual drop of waters of the Great Lakes, Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, Milwaukee, declared in an address today before the lake conference here. Summing up what he termed the facts in the situation, Mayor Hoan said:

Imbeciles or Grafters

"Chicago built the drainage canal as a mean of getting rid of its sewage. Whether the engineers who had planned the canal as a sewage disposal works were a bunch of imbeciles or whether the project was one to permit a huge public graft, has not been made clear so far. One thing is certain however, from the standpoint of being a success as a sewage disposal works, the drainage canal has been a joke.

"Were it not for the fact that the Illinois drainage canal officials immediately upon the completion of the canal, commenced to steal millions of cubic feet of water daily from the lake to flush its canal, some of the officials who planned the project as a sewage disposal works would undoubtedly have been lynched by the outraged citizens of Illinois.

Steal Water From Nation

"As soon as the engineers and politicians in charge of this monstrosity found that their sewage disposal works was a fizzle unless millions of cubic feet of water could be stolen at the expense of the other cities, they set about covering up their mistake inside of the state of Illinois by advocating a monumental bond issue aggregating several hundred of thousands of dollars for the purpose of developing great power works along the drainage canal to make financial gains from the excess water flowage. In other words they went out, raised the money and built the works to manufacture the stolen water into electric current notwithstanding the fact that they knew or must have known that this country could not afford to permit navigation on the Great Lakes to be perpetually damaged by such a monstrocity. The United States government cannot permit the excess water to be taken from the Great lakes because it not only endangers the welfare of all the people outside of the drainage canal district but it is in open defiance of the treaty rights existing between the United States and Great Britain governing the navigability of the Great Lakes waters.

Canal Claim Smoke Screen

"The sanitary officials are now raising a smoke screen in a last ditch attempt to cover up their steal. They are making claim that Wisconsin and the various lake cities are fighting an eight foot waterway from Chicago to the Mississippi river. They are all aware of the fact that this claim is a fraud. Nevertheless they seem to have fooled no less a person than the Governor of Wisconsin for a time at least with this hypocritical camouflage. The fact is that the engineers in this country including those of the War department, claim that no more than 1,000 cubic feet per second in needed for the eight foot waterway. At the present moment the drainage district is diverting ten times more than is needed for such a waterway. Such a tremendous amount of water is not needed for the eight foot waterway and it is menacing and driving away from Chicago, such lake traffic as it formerly possessed.

"Chicago has, from the day the drainage canal was built, gradually lost her prestige as a lake port, until today she receives barely one-fifth the lake tonnage received in that port thirty years ago. On the other hand, the tonnage of other lake ports has gradually increased. Milwaukee for example has over two and one-half times more tonnage now than thirty years ago, and at the present time has four times more lake tonnage than the entire city of Chicago.

"This conference should go on record as petitioning the Governor and Attorney General to push, within the earliest possible time, the suit started by the state to enjoin the Sanitary district of Chicago from diverting water of the Great Lakes not necessary for the eight foot waterway."

It is an interesting side light upon the situation that it is Milwaukee's Socialist mayor, Daniel W. Hoan, who is taking the leadership in the fight against the Dahl bill. As a Socialist, Hoan is not likely to be accused of undue sympathy with the business interests whose part he is taking. He sees in the measure, however, not only an attempt to make the cities pay more than their just share of taxes, but also danger of the great industries of Milwaukee and other cities being seriously crippled with loss not only to them but to their thousands of employes. Governor Blaine and Senator La Follette, who a few short months ago were the leaders of the so-called radical movement in the state, have been made to appear conservatives by the wave of irresponsibility that is sweeping through the state assembly. Now Milwaukee's Socialist mayor takes his place in opposition to a vital part of the "radical" program. Have Governor Blaine, Senator LaFollette and Mayor Hoan turned reactionary overnight or are they merely demonstrating a degree of sound sense not exhibited by many of their followers.

Woodstone is the name of a material made of sawdust mixed with magnesia cement and compressed under enormous pressure. This woodstone is very like ordinary wood, save that it has no grain. It is made in planks which can be cut with a saw and planed, and has the advantage of not being inflamable.

FORTUNE WINNERS REMEMBER GIRL

JUNCTION CITY WINNERS OF THE HOTEL NORTHERN BUY WATCH AND RING FOR GIRL WHO DREW NUMBER

Little Miss Elizabeth Haag of Eau Claire, aged 11 years, who drew the lucky number from a churn on the night of July 4, 1921, which awarded Hotel Northern of Chippewa Falls to Peter Layman of Junction City and a group of his friends, was remembered by the winners this week.

She was rewarded when A. L. Voyer of Junction City, another of the winners, made a special trip to Chippewa to give her a white gold wrist watch valued at $45, and a diamond ring in white gold with platinum top, valued at $55. The back of the watch contains the engraving: "From Peter Layman and winners of Hotel Northern."

Received $65,000

While the winners never received the hotel, they accepted a fortune in cash and securities in lieu of the building, the amount agreed upon being $65,000. The final settlement was made a few weeks ago with the Chippewa lodge of Elks.

Little Miss Haag drew No. E-67 and this number was held by Layman in pool No. 2528, the other pool holders being Voyer and his wife and two children and George Teneter, all of Junction City, M. J. Wolcott of Exeland, Wis., and Otto Schailer of Chippewa. All in the group decided to secure the gifts for the girl for the good luck which she brought to them. The pool winners plan to have a meeting at Chippewa each year to celebrate their good fortune in the drawing. Mr. Voyer declared that all are entirely satisfied with the settlement.

Mr. Voyer left Chippewa for Minneapolis to visit his brother, Dr. E. O. Voyer, who is a surgeon in St. Mary's hospital in that city. The Junction City man is suffering from a goitre and will have an examination made with a view to an operation in the near future.

WATER DIVERSION BIG STEAL HOAN TELLS PORT MEN

MILWAUKEE MAYOR SAYS CHICAGO PROJECT IS COSTING LAKE CITIES MILLIONS IN DREDGING EXPENSES

(By Associated Press)

Manitowoc, Wis., Mar. 2—The Chicago drainage canal, which is diverting a tremendous volume of water out of the Great Lakes, has not only caused tax payers of other lake cities to spend millions of dollars in dredging their harbors to keep pace with the gradual drop of waters of the Great Lakes, Mayor Daniel W. Hoan, Milwaukee, declared in an address today before the lake conference here. Summing up what he termed the facts in the situation, Mayor Hoan said:

Imbeciles or Grafters

"Chicago built the drainage canal as a mean of getting rid of its sewage. Whether the engineers who had planned the canal has a sewage disposal works were a bunch of imbeciles or whether the project was one to permit a huge public graft, has not been made clear so far. One thing is certain however, from the standpoint of being a success as a sewage disposal works, the drainage canal has been a joke.

"Were is not for the fact that the Illinois drainage canal officials immediately upon the completion of the canal, commenced to steal millions of cubic feet of water daily from the lake to flush its canal, some of the officials who planned the project as a sewage disposal works would undoubtedly have been lynched by the outraged citizens of Illinois.

Steal Water From Nation

"As soon as the engineers and politicians in charge of this monstrosity found that their sewage disposal works was a fizzle unless millions of cubic feet of water could be stolen at the expense of the other cities, they set about covering up their mistake inside of the state of Illinois by advocating a monumental bond issue aggregating several hundred of thousands of dollars for the purpose of developing great power works along the drainage canal to make financial gains from the excess water flowage. In other words they went out, raised the money and built the works to manufacture the stolen water into electric current notwithstanding the fact that they knew or must have known that this country could not afford to permit navigation on the Great Lakes to be perpetually damaged by such a monstrocity. The United States government cannot permit the excess water to be taken from the Great lakes because it not only endangers the welfare of all the people outside of the drainage canal district but it is in open defiance of the treaty rights existing between the United States and Great Britain governing the navigability of the Great Lakes waters.

Canal Claim Smoke Screen

"The sanitary officials are now raising a smoke screen in a last ditch attempt to cover up their steal. They are making claim that Wisconsin and the various lake cities are fighting an eight foot waterway from Chicago to the Mississippi river. They are all aware of the fact that this claim is a fraud. Nevertheless they seem to have fooled no less a person than the Governor of Wisconsin for a time at least with this hypocritical camouflage. The fact is that the engineers in this country including those of the War department, claim that no more than 1,000 cubic feet per second in needed for the eight foot waterway. At the present moment the drainage district is diverting ten times more than is needed for such a waterway. Such a tremendous amount of water is not needed for the eight foot waterway and it is menacing and driving away from Chicago, such lake traffic as it formerly possessed.

"Chicago has, from the day the drainage canal was built, gradually lost her prestige as a lake port, until today she receives barely one-fifth the lake tonnage received in that port thirty years ago. On the other hand, the tonnage of other lake ports has gradually increased. Milwaukee for example has over two and one-half times more tonnage now than thirty years ago, and at the present time has four times more lake tonnage than the entire city of Chicago.

"This conference should go on record as petitioning the Governor and Attorney General to push, within the earliest possible time, the suit started by the state to enjoin the Sanitary district of Chicago from diverting water of the Great Lakes not necessary for the eight foot waterway."

Kellogg's Bran is Guaranteed to give relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Relief from constipation, whether it be mild or chronic, will follow the regular, every-day eating of Kellogg's Bran. We have thousands of letters from former sufferers who tell us that the natural "bulk-action" of this wonderful cereal product has given relief they have not known for years. We guarantee that Kellogg's Bran will free the system from constipation because it is ALL BRAN—not a composition in which bran is added. If constipation is to be permanently relieved, you must eat ALL BRAN—that's why your physician will recommend Kellogg's for constipation.

Constipation creates toxic conditions which poison the blood and every organ of the body. It slows you down mentally and physically, and creates sick headaches, nausea, bad breath, pimples—finally, in many cases, leading to Bright's disease, diabetes and other dreaded illnesses. You must fight constipation with Kellogg's Bran regularly if you want health!

You'll say Kellogg's Bran is really delicious—it has a nut-like flavor that appeals to the most fastidious appetite. Eat it as a cereal, sprinkled on hot or cold cereals or cooked with hot cereals, allowing two tablespoonfuls of bran for each person. Be certain to eat at least two tablespoonfuls each day; as much with each meal in chronic cases. Kellogg's is delicious made into muffins, macaroons, raisin bread, griddle cakes. Recipes in every package. Kellogg's Bran is served by leading hotels, clubs and restaurants in individual packages. It is sold by all grocers.

Penalty For Furnishing False Information

St. Paul, Minn.—Any person who wilfully furnishes a Minnesota newspaper with a false statement is guilty of a misdemeanor, under the terms of a law enacted by the present legislature.

Kellogg's Bran is Guaranteed to give relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Relief from constipation, whether it be mild or chronic, will follow the regular, every-day eating of Kellogg's Bran. We have thousands of letters from former sufferers who tell us that the natural "bulk-action" of this wonderful cereal product has given relief they have not known for years. We guarantee that Kellogg's Bran will free the system from constipation because it is ALL BRAN—not a composition in which bran is added. If constipation is to be permanently relieved, you must eat ALL BRAN—that's why your physician will recommend Kellogg's for constipation.

Constipation creates toxic conditions which poison the blood and every organ of the body. It slows you down mentally and physically, and creates sick headaches, nausea, bad breath, pimples—finally, in many cases, leading to Bright's disease, diabetes and other dreaded illnesses. You must fight constipation with Kellogg's Bran regularly if you want health!

You'll say Kellogg's Bran is really delicious—it has a nut-like flavor that appeals to the most fastidious appetite. Eat it as a cereal, sprinkled on hot or cold cereals or cooked with hot cereals, allowing two tablespoonfuls of bran for each person. Be certain to eat at least two tablespoonfuls each day; as much with each meal in chronic cases. Kellogg's is delicious made into muffins, macaroons, raisin bread, griddlecakes. Recipes in every package. Kellogg's Bran is served by leading hotels, clubs and restaurants in individual packages. It is sold by all grocers.

NEW TERMINAL MAY BE THE LARGEST

OLD DEARBORN STATION MAY BE REPLACED BY LARGEST TERMINAL IN THE WORLD

(By Associated Press)

Chicago—The ancient Dearborn station damaged by fire four days before Christmas, will be replaced by the largest railroad terminal in the world, if the seven roads now using the station can obtain the support of two or more additional lines for plans already drawn.

The project involves an initial expenditure of approximately $55,000,000, ten year's work, a fifty per cent expansion of the downtown business district, removal of the "bottle neck" south of the loop and eventual elimination, through electrification, of smoke and cinders.

Plans Submitted

The plans call for a terminal development approximately one-third larger than that of the New York Central on Manhattan Island.

President H. G. Hetzler, president of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad, owners of the Dearborn terminal, recently submitted the plans to the seven roads which share the station, and, with their approval has opened negotiations with the New York Central and Rock Island which now use the LaSalle street station, and also the four roads which use the antiquated Grand Central station, inviting them to join.

The architects plans call for a so called "head house" composed of three units, a monumental forty story office building flanked by twenty story structures. The three would front on a wide plaza extending from Polk street. Dearborn street, which now terminates in front of the old station would be carried south on either side of the central unit as a wide elevated boulevard, the two sections uniting south of the headhouse to be continued to 16th street as a 120 foot boulevard. Bridges at the sixth floor level would cross these boulevards, linking the three buildings.

Tracks Submerged

All tracks would be submerged, opening the entire present yard space from Polk street south to 16th street and from State street west to Clark street, for construction of business houses and hotels. This area is slightly more than half as large as the present loop district and about one-third larger than the Grand Central terminal in New York.

Chicago's southern development has been hampered for years because the south branch of the Chicago river, bending back toward the lake, forms a narrow bottle neck through which all north and south traffic must move. This natural handicap has been augmented by acres of railroad tracks which have been crowded toward the lake by the twist of the river. As a result there are only four thoroughfares between the lake and the river Michigan avenue, Wabash State and Clark streets.

25 Sub Tracks

By carrying Dearborn street south through the area as a 120 foot wide elevated boulevard and also by elevating a boulevard on State street the terminal plans propose to unsnarl the bottle. All north and south and east and west streets in the terminal area would be double-decked, with freight streets on the ground level and the through boulevards following the plan already carried out on North Michigan avenue, and about to be installed on South Water street at the river.

The underground plans provide for twenty-eight stub tracks to handle through passenger service, with nine suburban service tracks circling around under the building in a loop. Arrangements are provided for direct connection of the suburban tracks with the proposed State street subway.

Construction of the terminal depends upon the attitude of roads now using other stations, which they have outgrown.

Cross Channel Flying Hedged With Safeguards

London.—Air trips between London and Paris are being made safer all the time, and before long passengers will almost be denied the thrill of taking a chance. Even if the airplane is forced down upon the waters of the Channel, the passengers may be rescued so quickly that they will have to use their imaginations to order to interest their friends with an account of the experience when they get back home. The Air Ministry is seeing to this.

Arrangements for carrying channel craft to the air [illegible] that falls in the wate[illegible] have [illegible] been completed and successfully tested. As all the trans-Channel fliers are equipped with wireless telephones, the authorities have adopted a new international distress word for aircraft. It is "May Day", the phonetic equivalent of "M'aidez", the French for "Help Me".

In a recent test a Royal Air Force flying boat was secretly instructed to make a "forced landing" with "engine trouble" at a certain point over the water. This was done. While planing down, the craft gave the distress three times. It was picked up by wireless stations at Croydon and Lympne. The station at Pulham got a bearing on the seaplane's position. A call was put through to the dock master at Dover, and twenty minutes after the airship asked for help, a tug was alongside her.

The new protective arrangements will be in effect night and day, as a regular night air service to Paris and back soon is to be established.

In a recent test a Royal Air Force flying boat was secretly instructed to make a "forced landing" with "engine trouble" at a certain point over the water. This was done. While planing down, the craft gave the distress three times. It was picked up by wireless stations at Croydon and Lympne. The station at Pulham got a bearing on the seaplane's position. A call was put through to the dock master at Dover, and twenty minutes after the airship asked for help, a tug was alongside her.

The new protective arrangements will be in effect night and day, as a regular night air service to Paris and back soon is to be established.

Failure To Pay Coal Tax May Mean Court Martial

(By Associated Press)

Duesseldorf, Mar. 1—The question of collecting the forty per cent on Ruhr coal came to the fore today in view of General DeGoutte's announcement that refusal to meet this obligation makes the offenders liable to trial by court marshal, and would result in seizure of coal from the mines.

TRANSPORTING ON RIVERS INCREASES IN OHIO DISTRICT

STATISTICS SHOW THAT MANY CONCERNS HAVE PLACED ORDERS FOR BARGES FOR SEASONS HAULING.

Pittsburgh—Record breaking activity in transportation of heavy freight on the main rivers of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys is forecast for the coming season, by the number of orders being placed for steel barges, steamboats and terminal facilities, and by the contracts let by steel mills for river and rail terminals.

As indicative of the important place river transportation is taking in the handling of heavy raw materials for mills and furnaces, and the shipping of heavy steel products to the market, there are now in the Pittsburgh district 84 steamboats and 1,315 barges, the barges representing a carrying capacity equal to 19,725 freight cars. This, it is pointed out by steel company traffic men, relieves the railroads of almost 20,000 cars which ordinarily would be required to move coal, cement, steel, sand, gravel, oil, lumber, glass and other Pittsburgh products.

300 Steel Barges

A survey of the district by a leading constructor shows that orders have recently been placed for 300 steel barges requiring about 95,000 tons of steel. These standard barges are 200 feet long, 35 feet wide and ten feet deep, and have a carrying capacity of 1,000 tons.

Ten steamboats with steel hulls have been contracted for or are under construction. They are from 175 to 200 feet in length, with stern paddle wheels, and, while carrying no freight themselves, can push down steam 10,000 tons to 15,000 tons of freight loaded on barges.

Build Terminals

Terminals facilities, under construction or contract, extend all the way from the stiff-legged derrick on the river bank connecting with a railroad siding to the most elaborate and expensive floating terminals.

One such terminal, being built by the Carnegie Steel Company on the Monongahela River, will cost in the neighborhood of $500,000 while two others for the Jones & Laughlin Steel Company at Pittsburgh and Woodlawn, Pa., are to cost $300,000. The terminal of the Wheeling Steel Corporation at Wheeling, W. Va., is to cost $200,000, and floating terminals, built jointly by the federal government and municipalities at Memphis, Cario, Helena and Vicksburg are to cost approximately $2,500,000. There is also a project for a rail and river terminal at Louisville, Ky. on which about $500,000 is to be expended.

Increase Equipment

A survey of river craft shows the following additions within the past few months, and the number under contract:

Wheeling Steel Corporations, two towboats, ten barges; Carnegie Steel Company, two towboats, 80 steel barges; Jones & Laughlin Steel Company, 30 barges with contracts pending for two towboats, American Steel & Wire Company, 20 barges; Rodgers Sand Company, 10 barges; Patton-Tulley Company, Memphis, three steel logging barges; Pitsburgh Coal Company, 20 barges; Louisville Cincinnati Packet Company, contract let for two steamboats; Barratt Lines, Cincinnati, one steamboat; Mississippi-Warrior Service: inquiry for 40 standard barges for Warrior River, and 20 two-thousand ton barges for Mississippi River service; Standard Oil Company of Ohio, two gas boats and fleet of oil carrying barges for the Upper Ohio River

Wants Popularity Of "No" Dance Maintained

Tokio.—Prince Tokugawa is heading an association of prominent noblemen and business men to maintain the popularity of the famous NO dance of Japan. Plans are under way to extend the interest in the art to other countries by sending singers, flute players and drum beaters as well as the very elaborate trousseau of the dancers, masks and brocades, should be transported. Another difficulty will be to present to the foreign public translations of the No literature and explanations of an art that requires from the Japanese themselves special culture to be appreciated.

Roman Tenants Now Face Heavy Rent Increases

Rome—The landlords of Italy, backed by a recent royal decree which permits them to raise rents, have started out to make good the losses of years. The victim is the tenant and his lamentations and protests fill the pages of the press and are heard wherever men congregate. No tenant is safe, and the demands of the landlords are not limited by even the blue sky. Some have announced increases of 300 and 400 per cent; 500 per cent is recorded in some cases. The date for the new rates is July 1.

Up to the present time tenants have been enjoying possession on contracts made prior to and during the war. This was when the lira was five for a dollar; today a dollar costs between 20 and 25 lire. Existing contracts were made obligatory by the recent Facta government up to 1926, but Premier Mussolini threw a bombshell into the situation when he rescinded this decree and became responsible for a ruling that landlords could henceforth charge what they pleased. The only recourse of the tenant is an appeal to his provincial commission, composed equally of landlords and tenants, which will hear complaints and make recommendations. Mussolini has warned the landlords not to be grasping and abuse their position, but these words contain little hope, tenants declare.

The advertising card is of entirely modern origin, although the Egyptians, Greeks and Romans knew something about advertising.

income tax is on its way definitely. The proposal has gone through the senate by a large vote. It will meet little opposition in the lower house which already has accepted it in the Dahl general income tax bill.

Alarmed at Radicalism

These tax measures are not concerning the senate so much as some of the really radical moves that are succeeding the assembly. Abolition of the national guard will be blocked when it reaches the floor of the senate. Few more than three votes will be recorded in its favor, but the guard is to get a decided cut in appropriation.

Abolition of the state civil service will not meet with favor in the upper house despite the large vote in the assembly. This radical suggestion will be opposed by the governor and the move to push it through stopped in the senate.

Leaders in the lower house are about ready to throw up their hands and accept whatever comes. There seems to be stemming of the tide of legislation from that body on almost any conceivable subject. This attitude is taken as a general expression of disapproval with the way the state government has been going along.

In the senate, however, all factions are beginning to realize that they must give serious consideration to many of the measures that are going through the assembly.

While individual actions are appearing radical, the general opinion is that when the legislation of the session is ready for the governor, it will be greatly tempered.

Oneida County Official Blocked Road Is Charge

Sidney Schmitt, town chairman of the town of Sugar Camp, Oneida county, was arraigned in court at Rhinelander this week on a charge of malicious obstruction of a public highway. The hearing was adjourned to March 10.

Schmitt is accused of filling a cut with heavy blocks of packed snow after the county snow plow crew had made a track through the deep drifts at a point on the Sugar Camp highway.

According to the story, the work was done by a county crew at the request of residents along the highway and others interested in keeping the road clear for traffic. A subscription was raised to reimburse the county for the expense of the job.

Pictures of the blocked highway, taken as evidence in the case, show huge blocks of snow several feet deep and from six to eight feet long in the cut.

Remittances To Japan Decrease Report Shows

Tokio.—Remittances from Papanese residing abroad appear to have fallen last year to less than one-third of the total of boom years. The amounts handled by the Yokohama Specie Bank may be taken as a fair index. In 1918 the homeward remittances through this Bank amounted to 1,834,200 yen, in 1921, they dropped to 916,600 yen and last year to 463,500 yen. The largest decrease was in the sum sent from the United States, but the trend was the same everywhere.

Pasteurized Milk

Means

PURE MILK

Pasteurizing is merely a process of heating milk, or other liquid, to a temperature at which all germ life is destroyed. This is accomplished by heating the milk to 145 degrees F. and holding it at that temperature for several minutes, after which the milk is cooled back to a temperature for proper keeping. The process was discovered by a French scientist, Louis Pasteur, and bears his name.

The Wisconsin Valley Creamery Company pasteurizes all of the milk and cream received at it's plant, thus ensuring absolute purity of milk and cream for retail trade, and of the cream which is manufactured into butter. Pasteurized milk may be obtained at our Retail Sales Room at no greater cost than for milk which has not been subjected to this process. Wherever milk is sold, "pasteurized" is a symbol of purity.

SIR NORMAN GREYES, formerly of Scotland Yard, joins the chase of MICHAEL SAYERS, famous criminal. Sayers, masquerading as Thomas Puysley, roker is recognized by Greyes who sends a police inspector to accost Sayer on the street. Sayers shoots the inspector and escapes.

Known at the golf club as James Stanfield and suitably disguised, Michael is introduced to Sir Norman Janet Soale maid in the home of master, is secretly in love with her master. Detecting a policeman following Michael, Janet shoots the officer thru the forehead, killing him instantly. Greyes and Sayers find the body. Both recognize the man. Greyes becomes suspicious that James Sanfield is in reality Michael Sayers, the master criminal.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"I shall be only too pleased," I told him. "My staff is rather limited, as I am only here occasionally. My gardener is out for the afternoon, so there only remains my maidservant."

* * *

I led the way into the house. Janet was busy in the kitchen, but came at once to our summons. As usual, she was wonderfully neat, and her manner, although reserved, was perfectly open.

"We want to know," my companion asked, "whether there have been any callers at the house this afternoon?"

"None, sir," she replied, "except the boy with the chicken I ordered for the master's dinner."

"Have you seen anyone about the place?"

"No one, sir."

"Did you hear anything which might have been the report of a pistol?"

"Nothing at all, sir."

"Have you been outside the house yourself?"

The girl shook her head.

"I have had no occasion to go out, sir," she replied. "I have been busy in the kitchen."

Greyes nodded, and dismissed her after a few more unimportant questions. Soon a police inspector arrived, and the doctor. I let them visit the scene of the crime alone. As soon as they had gone, I went upstairs. I looked in my tie-drawer for the small revolver. It was not there. I looked in the bottom drawer, which I had left locked, for the clothes which I had worn when I had made my escape. The drawer had been forced open, and the clothes, too, had disappeared. Then I realized that I was faced with a problem. Someone had penetrated my defenses. I had been—I probably still was—in danger. I went down to the study and summoned Janet once more to my presence. When she arrived I took my seat between her and the door. I made her face the window. Down in the shrubbery the police inspector was still talking to Greyes.

"Do you know anything about this affair which you did not tell Sir Norman Greyes?" I asked her.

"Yes, sir," she replied.

I looked at her thoughtfully. She was very straight and shapely in the gray twilight. Her eyes met mine without flinching. I have been an indifferent student of women's looks, but I realized then that they were a very beautiful though rather a cruel color, greeny-brown of a light shade, with delicate lashes and finely cut eyebrows. There was a passionate curve to her lips which I had never before noticed. Her hair was brown and lustrous.

"You had better tell me everything Janet," I enjoined.

"Soon after you had gone out," she said, "the man who lies in the toolhouse came here and asked me questions about you. He made his way into your bedroom. He was anxious to see the clothes in which you had traveled down. He opened the bottom drawer of your wardrobe and found them."

"There was a revolver in the top drawer," I remarked.

"I had discovered that and hidden it," she replied.

"And after he had found my clothes?"

"He went down to the shrubbery to wait for you."

"Did he say what he wanted?"

"He had told me that he was an officer of the police."

"And then?"

"I went down the other path, and I made my way across the spongy turf to where he was standing. When I was so near that there was no chance of missing him, I shot him."

I am a man to whom courage is second nature, and I have seen death trifled with, and trilled with it myself, like the juggler with his ball, but I have never heard it spoken of with more indifference. Outside, the figures of the detective and his companion were still visible in the little wood. The body of the dead man was only a few yards away. I leaned forward and I looked at the girl, striving to get past the almost cynical impenetrability of her speech.

"Why did you do this, Janet?" I asked.

"He did what no man in the world has ever dared to do before, sir," she replied. "He kissed me—upon the lips! I wonder that I did not kill him where he stood!"

"Had you no other reason than that, Janet?" I persisted.

"I wished to save you, sir," she answered.

"To save me from what?"

"From the law."

"You think that I was in danger?"

"I know that you were."

"Who or what do you think I am?"

"A great criminal," she answered.

I was staggered, for it was plain to me now that I must have been at this girl's mercy many a time. She went on slowly.

"I have always believed," she continued, "that you were leading a double life. The few visitors you have had have come at night, and secretly. Whenever you have arrived here, and Mr. Stanfield has recommended to play golf, there has been a tragedy or a great robbery reported in the newspapers on the following morning. I always felt that some day or other this would happen. Now that it has come, I am glad."

"You realize that you killed a man in cold blood?" I persisted, determined to try her to the limit.

"I am glad that I have," she replied.

"For a domestic servant," I said "you have a wonderful sense of your obligations."

"You need not scoff at me," she complained. "I am a woman, a dangerous woman, but a clever one. I was not brought up to be a servant. I am fit to be your companion. That is my hope."

"I have never trusted a woman in my life," I told her.

"You will trust me," she declared in a low tone. "You will remember what I have done for you today. I am the woman who was made to complete your life. You had better realize it and make use of me. You will not regret it."

She came a little closer to me, and though women have never been more than the toys of my idle moments, I felt the passion of her strike into my heart. My senses were aflame. I saw life differently. Her voice became softer and more sibilant. She was like some beautiful animal. Her eyes were appealing but inhuman.

"You shall marry me," she continued. "I have a fancy about that, and I insist. Then think of the benefit. If disaster should come, I shall never be able to give evidence against you. But there will be no disaster. I know how clever you are. I too have brains. Say that this means something to you. I have given proof of my devotion. Repay me."

I took her into my arms. There was a savage fire in her kiss which warmed my blood, a fierce delight in her strange-colored eyes which amazed while it enthralled me. This modern Borgia seemed to have fastened herself on to my life. The figures of the men in the little wood grew more shadowy.

I MADE MY WAY ACROSS THE SPONGY TURF TO WHERE HE WAS STANDING.

"Where is the pistol?" I whispered, holding her away from me for a moment.

"Where no one will ever find it," she answered.

"And the clothes?"

"Burned. I run no risks when your safety is in question."

The searchers came back to the house half an hour or so later. I was busy rebinding the handle of my putter. Janet was in the kitchen, preparing my dinner. Greyes accepted a whiskey and soda. He looked tired and a little dejected.

"Any luck?" I asked him under my breath, as he prepared to take his leave.

He shook his head.

"So far as circumstantial evidence is concerned," he admitted, "I am afraid we shall be in a bad way. A more brutal murder I never remember. A young man, too, with a wife and three or four children, simply out to do his duty. If—"

He stopped short, swallowed a little sob in his throat, and turned away.

"I hope that you will give me another game of golf some day, Mr. Stanfield," he said, as he prepared to take his leave.

"With great pleasure," I assented.

SIR NORMAN GREYES' DECISION

Yesterday the inquest on poor Richard Ladbrooke, after having been twice adjourned, resulted in a verdict of murder against some person or persons unknown. The verdict itself is a terrible reflection upon our present criminal methods. It pulls at the strings of my conscience with sickening intensity. Ladbrooke had found a clew which he confided to no one. He had traveled down to Woking in search of the missing man Pugsley—or Michael Sayers, as I believe him to have been. He must have been murdered there either by Pugsley himself or some confederate; yet not one of us has been able to lay our hands upon a single shred of evidence. I have been unable to tear myself away from the place. I have had several games of golf with Mr. Stanfield, and I have dined with him once at his house—a very excellent dinner and wonderfully cooked. He is desirous of offering a small reward for the apprehension of the murderer, but at present I have not encouraged him. I do not want a crowd of people stirring up the waters. I have not said as much to anyone—not even to him; but I am making it the object of my life to lay my hands upon the so-called Thomas Pugsley. The day I find him, the mystery of Ladbrooke's murder will be solved. And I shall find him!

"The Kiss of Judas," second story of this remarkable series, will begin in our next issue.

"And then?"

"I went down the other path, and I made my way across the spongy turf to where he was standing. When I was so near that there was no chance of missing him, I shot him."

I am a man to whom courage is second nature, and I have seen death trifled with, and trifled with it myself, like the juggler with his ball, but I have never heard it spoken of with more indifference. Outside, the figures of the detective and his companion were still visible in the little wood. The body of the dead man was only a few yards away. I leaned forward and I looked at the girl, striving to get past the almost cynical impenetrability of her speech.

"Why did you do this, Janet?" I asked.

"He did what no man in the world has ever dared to do before, sir," she replied. "He kissed me—upon the lips! I wonder that I did not kill him where he stood!"

"Had you no other reason than that, Janet?" I persisted.

"I wished to save you, sir," she answered.

"To save me from what?"

"From the law."

"You think that I was in danger?"

"I know that you were."

"Who or what do you think I am?"

"A great criminal," she answered.

I was staggered, for it was plain to me now that I must have been at this girl's mercy many a time. She went on slowly.

"I have always believed," she continued, "that you were leading a double life. The few visitors you have had have come at night, and secretly. Whenever you have arrived here, and Mr. Stanfield has recommended to play golf, there has been a tragedy or a great robbery reported in the newspapers on the following morning. I always felt that some day or other this would happen. Now that it has come, I am glad."

"You realize that you killed a man in cold blood?" I persisted, determined to try her to the limit.

"I am glad that I have," she replied.

"For a domestic servant," I said "you have a wonderful sense of your obligations."

"You need not scoff at me," she complained. "I am a woman, a dangerous woman, but a clever one. I was not brought up to be a servant. I am fit to be your companion. That is my hope."

"I have never trusted a woman in my life," I told her.

"You will trust me," she declared in a low tone. "You will remember what I have done for you today. I am the woman who was made to complete your life. You had better realize it and make use of me. You will not regret it."

She came a little closer to me, and though women have never been more than the toys of my idle moments, I felt the passion of her strike into my heart. My senses were aflame. I saw life differently. Her voice became softer and more sibilant. She was like some beautiful animal. Her eyes were appealing but inhuman.

"You shall marry me," she continued. "I have a fancy about that, and I insist. Then think of the benefit. If disaster should come, I shall never be able to give evidence against you. But there will be no disaster. I know how clever you are. I too have brains. Say that this means something to you. I have given proof of my devotion. Repay me."

I took her into my arms. There was a savage fire in her kiss which warmed my blood, a fierce delight in her strange-colored eyes which amazed while it enthralled me. This modern Borgia seemed to have fastened herself on to my life. The figures of the men in the little wood grew more shadowy.

I MADE MY WAY ACROSS THE SPONGY TURF TO WHERE HE WAS STANDING.

"Where is the pistol?" I whispered, holding her away from me for a moment.

"Where no one will ever find it," she answered.

"And the clothes?"

"Burned. I run no risks when your safety is in question."

The searchers came back to the house half an hour or so later. I was busy rebinding the handle of my putter. Janet was in the kitchen, preparing my dinner. Greyes accepted a whiskey and soda. He looked tired and a little dejected.

"Any luck?" I asked him under my breath, as he prepared to take his leave.

He shook his head.

"So far as circumstantial evidence is concerned," he admitted, "I am afraid we shall be in a bad way. A more brutal murder I never remember. A young man, too, with a wife and three or four children, simply out to do his duty. If—"

He stopped short, swallowed a little sob in his throat, and turned away.

"I hope that you will give me another game of golf some day, Mr. Stanfield," he said, as he prepared to take his leave.

"With great pleasure," I assented.

SIR NORMAN GREYES' DECISION

Yesterday the inquest on poor Richard Ladbrooke, after having been twice adjourned, resulted in a verdict of murder against some person or persons unknown. The verdict itself is a terrible reflection upon our present criminal methods. It pulls at the strings of my conscience with sickening intensity. Ladbrooke had found a clew which he confided to no one. He had traveled down to Woking in search of the missing man Pugsley—or Michael Sayers, as I believe him to have been. He must have been murdered there either by Pugsley himself or some confederate; yet not one of us has been able to lay our hands upon a single shred of evidence. I have been unable to tear myself away from the place. I have had several games of golf with Mr. Stanfield, and I have dined with him once at his house—a very excellent dinner and wonderfully cooked. He is desirous of offering a small reward for the apprehension of the murderer, but at present I have not encouraged him. I do not want a crowd of people stirring up the waters. I have not said as much to anyone—not even to him; but I am making it the object of my life to lay my hands upon the so-called Thomas Pugsley. The day I find him, the mystery of Ladbrooke's murder will be solved. And I shall find him!

"The Kiss of Judas," second story of this remarkable series, will begin in our next issue.

Many Foreign Perpetual Leases In Yokohama

Yokohama—The question of perpetual leases held by foreigners in this city is likely to be brought up in the Diet in the form of a proposal that the government should purchase them. Under the decision of the Hague court holders of these leases are exempt from taxation. As a result the municipality's income is considerably curtailed, so the Government for the last eight years has been contributing 80,000 yen a year to partially offset this loss. The area of these leases exclusive of the foreign consulates is 237,000 tsubo, a tsubo equalling 36 square feet. The value is enormous, as the land is in the center of the city and much of it faces the harbor where foreign firms have erected substantial buildings.

Farmers of Minnesota have been called to meet at St. Paul today to perfect a model co-operative marketing system.

Large quantities of apple wood are used in the manufacture of rulers, canes, tobacco pipes, mallets, and saw handles.

It has been calculated that not less than 20,000,000 meteors, each large enough to be visible as a "shooting star," enter our atmosphere daily.

JANITORS RAISE FEE FOR LETTING ERRANT HUSBANDS IN; HUSBANDS REFUSE TO PAY AND WAR RESULTS

Vienna—The recalling of things as they used to be does not come amiss in Vienna, for in the old days there were many thing sso pleasant in this city that their recollection and discussion today serves often to lighten the gloom of a dull winter.

Take, for instance the Vienna housemeister, the janitor of American cities, but a dignified, glorified, useful and even courteous janitor. It was his custom to open the doors of apartment houses after ten o'clock at night for the belated, and to exact a fee of twenty heller, four cents, for the service.

No one minded it; foreigners found it mediaeval and amusing. For two centuries or more the fee had been twenty heller, and its collection through a year was sometimes [illegible] to send the janitor's child to school.

Raise Starts Rumpus

Now the hausmeisters and the tenants are in a bitter feud. The courts have permitted an increase in this fee in a ruling, the loose wording of which has been seized upon by the hausmeisters as authorization for a charge the tenants call utterly unreasonable. They are refusing to pay it, and in retaliation the housemeisters, on the inside of the doors, are refusing to let them in to their own apartments if the tenant reaches the threshold of his house one minute after ten o'clock. Some tenants are so determined to "put an end to the outrage" that, when refused admission, they are turning to the nearest police station and demanding shelter for the night. Thus it was recently reported in the newspapers that in one district of the city alone no fewer than 17 persons spent the night in the lock-up in preference to meeting the exactions of the grasping hausmeister.

Decline Titles

Another incident of to-day recalls the time when Hofrat, or Court Counsellor, was a title that carried with it in Vienna something worth while. Many a woman was happy in the old days when she could order calling cards bearing the inscription "Frau Hofrat———"

A few days ago the senate of the University of Vienna notified the government that professors would henceforth decline the title, and that those now possessed of it had decided to drop it. Since the fall of the monarchy it has been handed out so freely to men in all walks of life that it has lost all the distinction it ever enjoyed.

FINANCE PROBLEMS NOW FACE IRISH

IRELAND COMFORTED WITH PROBLEMS OF SETTLING BOUNDARIES AND METHODS OF MEETING WAR EXPENSES

Dublin—Two important questions arising under the Anglo-Irish Treaty have yet to be dealt with: the clauses on finance and the Ulster boundary. Internal troubles have prevented these questions from coming up for definite settlement, but the Free State government is planning to tackle them both in the near future.

To Pay Share

It will be remembered that the Irish delegates to London undertook that Ireland pay its share of the war debt and of war pensions, and the sum payable was to be fixed after inquiry as to how much Ireland ought to pay, allowance being made in Ireland's favor for over-taxation in the past. The payment of from 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 pounds sterling in compensation to the victims of outrages will involve the Irish budget in a deficit, and the amount payable to England under the treaty will add to the difficulty. It is accepted as certain that the Irish Free State must float a loan and start with a national debt. Until now taxation, as fixed in the British budget, has prevailed in Ireland, the Irish government taking over the money so raised. But this year will see the first Irish budget, and the taxation will all be imposed and collected by the Free State.

Government Optimistic

On the subject of finance the government is optimistic. It is attempting immediately the final settlement of the land question, which may involve as much as 70,000,000 pounds sterling. The British Land Purchase Acts transferred from the landlords to tenant proprietors the greater part of the land in Ireland, but the job was left unfinished, and all over Ireland, side by side with farmers who own their farms and are paying for them in annual instalments less than the rent, are some thousands of farmers still paying the old rents. The government now proposes to make land purchases complete and compulsory. Every landlord must sell and every tenant must buy.

To Fix Boundaries

As regards the Ulster boundary, preparations are being made for the appointment of the commission to fix the boundaries of the future Northern Parliament. The treaty prescribes that the boundaries be readjusted in accordance with the wishes of the inhabitants, but does not determine how those wishes are to be ascertained. The decision will depend on the area taken for inquiry. If the voting were by counties, both Tyrone and Fermanagh would undoubtedly vote themselves into the Free State. With similar areas as voting units, parts would stay with Belfast and parts with Dublin.

British-Irish Differ

The treaty brought some difference of opinion between the British and Irish delegates as to what it meant, the latter contending that it meant the transference of large areas, and the former urging that all they meant was the rectification of the frontier line. The boundaries commission was to consist of one representative of the Free State, one of the Northern government and one of the British government. But Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, and his colleagues have from the first declined to be bound by any provision of the treaty in this regard, as they were not parties to it.

The Free State government has a staff working on the whole boundary question, which issues statements periodically pointing out the anomalies of the present situation, which gives the Northern government power over many districts which deny it allegiance.

Whichever view is taken of the meaning of the treaty two important towns—Derry and Newry—must be affected. They are both right on the edge of the border, and both have Nationalist majorities; yet it is unlikely that the Northern government would, without strong compulsion, part with either.

Reforms Are Becoming Effective In Japan

Tokio.—Several important reforms came into effect in Japan proper and Formosa with the opening of 1923. Juvenile courts were opened, more up-to-date bankruptcy and arbitration laws became effective and the Japanese civil code, with slight modifications and changes was put in operation in Formosa.

"The existing administrative system of the country leaves much to be desired and improved. But such improvement should be sought by degrees instead of by leaps and bounds, especially where the system concerns the fundamental stratum of society or the very life of national existence."

RITCHAY'S CAGERS PLAY OLD RIVALS TONIGHT AT POINT

EXPECT TO MAKE GOOD SHOWING; ALL INTEREST IS CENTERED IN THE COMING STATE BASKETBALL TOURNEY

Coach Ritchay's cagers will travel to Stevens Point tonight where they tackle the strong Pointers in the opening game at the new high school gymnasium and one that will go a long ways to determine the relative strenght of the two teams when they buck up against each other in the Normal tourney. Although Coach Ritchay does not expect a victory he expects a good showing in the game tonight as it will give the offense a chance to work on a wider floor.

All interest is centered in the coming tournament and although there is little talk of a victory at this time it is expected that the showing will give promise of a championship team next year.

Schedule First Day

The schedule for the first day two games to be played in the afternoon and two in the evening is as follows:

1 Almond vs. Wisconsin Rapids.
2 Friendship vs. Westfield.
3 Marshfield vs. Wautoma.
4 Stevens Point vs. Waupaca.

The four losers of the first day will be again arranged in alphabetical order for the games on Friday afternoon. The winners of the first day will be arranged in the same manner for the evening games. The winners of the two Friday night games will play for the district championship on Saturday night of tournament week.

Saturday Afternoon

The losers of Friday night and the winners of the games Friday afternoon will meet on Saturday afternoon to determine which two teams will play on Saturday evening for third and fourth places. The grouping of the teams will follow the alphabetical arrangement all the way through. This is the first time this system has been used in the state, but it is believed that it is fair to all.

Westfield and Friendship Highschools, although not much has been heard from them, are believed to have strong squads. Among the teams Friendship has defeated is Poynette which previous to its defeat by Friendship, had won 14 straight games. Westfield and Friendship have met and have broken about even in their games.

Wautoma Loses One

Wautoma has played strong teams this season losing but one game, and that to Red Granite by a close score. Waupaca has good material but is said to have been suffering from a lack of proper training. Almond although it has played in a slower class is believed to have a fighting chance against Wisconsin Rapids.

Strength of Marshfield, Stevens Point and Wisconsin Rapids, all representatives of the Wisconsin Valley conference, is well known by local fans. Some beleive that the fight for tournament honors will be between Marshfield and Stevens Point.

Inflammable Movie Film May Be Put In Discards

Chicago—Radical innovations in movie theater construction will be possible if congress passes a bill, now before congress, to bar the interstate transportation of inflammable picture films, according to engineers of the Underwriters Laboratories here, who have just completed a study of the subject and issued a statement on their findings.

Moving picture theater architecture, they say, has been developed around the necessity of having an elaborately fire proofed projection chamber, carefully isolated from all fire exits, and equipped with special devices to confine the flames in event the highly inflammable nitrocellulose films catch fire.

Passage of the pending bill, which is sponsored by the association of state fire marshalls, would outlaw the inflammable film in favor of a slow burning film which is no more dangerous than a roll of ticker tape or any other paper commodity.

Villa Loses Fly-weight Title To Frank Genaro

(By Associated Press)

New York, Mar. 2—Frank Genaro, east side boy who won the world amateur championship of his class in the last olympic, today is the new American flyweight champion of the 112 pounders.

He displaced Pancho Villa, the mightiest fighting man that ever came out of the Philippines. He is a sad boy today, as he loses his chance go meet Jimmy Wilde of England, champion of that kingdom.

There are many among the fifteen thousand who saw the crown change hands last night in Madison Square Gardens who are of the opinion that Villa was hard treated and should have at least received a draw.

PANCHO VILLA

Favor Convention For Revision Of State Constitution

Madison, Wis.—The Kiesner resolution calling for a constitutional convention was advanced in the assembly today after the house refused to indefinitely postpone the measure as recommended by the committee on judiciary. Motion to kill the resolution was lost by a vote of 41 to 56.

There are 14 measures before the legislature asking for changes in the state constitution, Assemblyman Kiesner said, in urging adoption.

People Capable Today

Assemblyman Duncan asserted that he did not believe that the legislature should feel that people today were not as capable of knowing what they want as the criminal framers of the constitution.

Assemblyman Warden also spoke for the measure. Assemblyman Sachrjen, chairman of the judiciary committee, explained that while he had supported the calling of a convention at the last session, he had decided that everything should not be attempted at once and that too many questions submitted at one time would lead to the defeat of Progressive plans.

Sleigh Bill Killed

Liehe bill providing for a standard width of sleighs, killed a week ago, was brought forth for reconsideration and was again killed with a vote of 61 to 31.

The Freehoff bill against "undemocratic social functionse at the university" and which would have submitted questions to the university authorities as to what measures they had taken to suppress drinking and bootlegging at the university was also voted to death. The vote was 61 to 31.

Point Railroad Workers Benefit By Wage Raise

Stevens Point—A considerable number of local railroad workers, how many Soo officials here could not readily state, will benefit by a decision of the United States railroad labor board.

The board granted wage increases of two cents an hour to 65,000 railway freight handlers and laborers in the United States and the eight hour day was restored to all of the 321,000 members of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employes.

The decision disposed of the last of a batch of wage cases that had been pending for months, and follows one of several weeks ago, in which the board restored the eight hour day to 150,000 railway signalmen.

Both had previously been working under a rule giving them the regular rate up to and including the ninth hour and time and one-half pay for overtime after the eighth hour.

The Sixty-seventh Congress will virtuall yconclude its business today, in anticipation of taking the final adjournment tomorrow.

Outline Plans For State Convention Of Moose

Stevens Point—Edward Jess of Wausau, deputy guard regent for the Loyal Order of Moose, was in town Wednesday, coming here to confer with officers of the local Moose lodge and ladies' auxiliary and outline a tentative program for the state convention to be held here this year. Dates for the big gathering were set for June 1, 2 and 3, when it is expected that 400 to 500 regularly elected delegates will come to Stevens Point for the three days' session.

An estimate of at least 2,000 visitors is made for Saturday and Sunday June 2 and 3, which days will be devoted largely to entertainment features. The biggest delegations are expected from Wausau, Fond du Lac and Milwaukee, each city promising to send several hundred and Milwaukee will be represented by a band of 60 pieces.

Sol's Rays Clear County Highways For Auto Travel

The extremely warm weather that has been enjoyed the past few days is rapidly eating its way into the mammoth drifts that have piled high the county roads during the winter. For the first time in a month the road has been opened up between this city and Pittsville, making it possible for a truck from the Pittsville Creamery to reach this city this morning without any serious delays.

According to members of the crew which broke their way through the drifts the road was not in a very bad condition save for the spots where drifts had piled up. These were done away with by the aid of several number ten scoop shovels and shovelers who were determined to open the road to this city.

Could Open Roads

Farmers coming into the city claim that at a very little expense the roads could be made passable as the snow is not deep except in places where drifts occur. These spots are few and far between according to the reports and a fair sized crew could eliminate them in one day. One farmer claimed that at the expense of $100 the road between this city and Marshfield could be opened up for automobile traffic.

We have heard lots of jokes about the Ford but the latest is that one Ford from this city got over ambitious and thought it was a railroad train, traveling the Green Bay tracks between this city and Plover. The trip was uneventful save for a few added bumps caused by the snow being melted from off the right of way.

The General Assembly has been called by the Governor to convene in special session today.

This year, for the first time in many centuries, no one in England will be able to sell any intoxicating liquors by retail without being properly licensed.
